During the week members of the fire department called at the city schools to give lectures and demonstrations on fire prevention. Saturday morning at 10:00 o'clock there will be a full length movie at the Carmel Theatre for the children, Fireman Save My Child. Price of admission is one fire hazard. —LIVINGSTON PHOTO.

Planners Alter Boundaries Of Orange Zone

The Carmel Planning Commission approved the new zoning map of the central district presented to them yesterday afternoon by Planning Consultant Larry Livingston, Jr. The map differs in some areas from the proposed general plan for Carmel. Livingston was influenced in making the changes by considering "The existing uses of the land," he stated.

Commissioner Lee Gottfried pointed out to the Commission that the new zoning changes nine and a half blocks of existing commercial property to proposed multiple dwelling: takes four and half blocks of residence land for multiple dwelling use; and approximately one half block of commercially zoned land for an addition to the residence zone.

Livingston proposes to return half of the blocks between Fifth and Third Avenues fronting on Mission street to commercial use, previously designed in the Master Plan for C-2 commercial service. The C-2 zone thus returns to its existing boundaries with the small additions of property fronting on Junipero Street, occupied by the Carmel Borden's Dairy, and all of the property occupied by Pilot's Market. Carmel Borden's Dairy frontage on Junipero is 20 feet and all but five feet of Pilot's

Mayors Find Area Of Agreement In Garbage Deadlock

Mayors of the Peninsula cities met yesterday noon for lunch to talk over the deadlock of the garbage district board over what to do about contracts for garbage disposal.

The mayors arrived at the conclusion that the board should reject all bids and should negotiate with F. C. Bishop for a renewal of the lease of the property now used for cut and fill disposal; also to negotiate with R. E. Lamm to continue operating if. The mayors agreed that it is desirable that a two or three year lease and contract should be sought; also that the district board should look into acquiring land for the district and continue studying mechanical means of disposal.

Community Chest Within 30 Percent Of Its $108,000

Thursday noon the Community Chest Drive had reached 30 percent of the $108,000 goal and contributions are running about 18 percent ahead of last year, accord- to drive chairmen.

More than 1000 volunteer workers are soliciting funds for the 15 participating agencies, one of which, the visiting nurse service, saves the county more than $100,000 each year, in cases treated in the home instead of being sent to the county hospital.

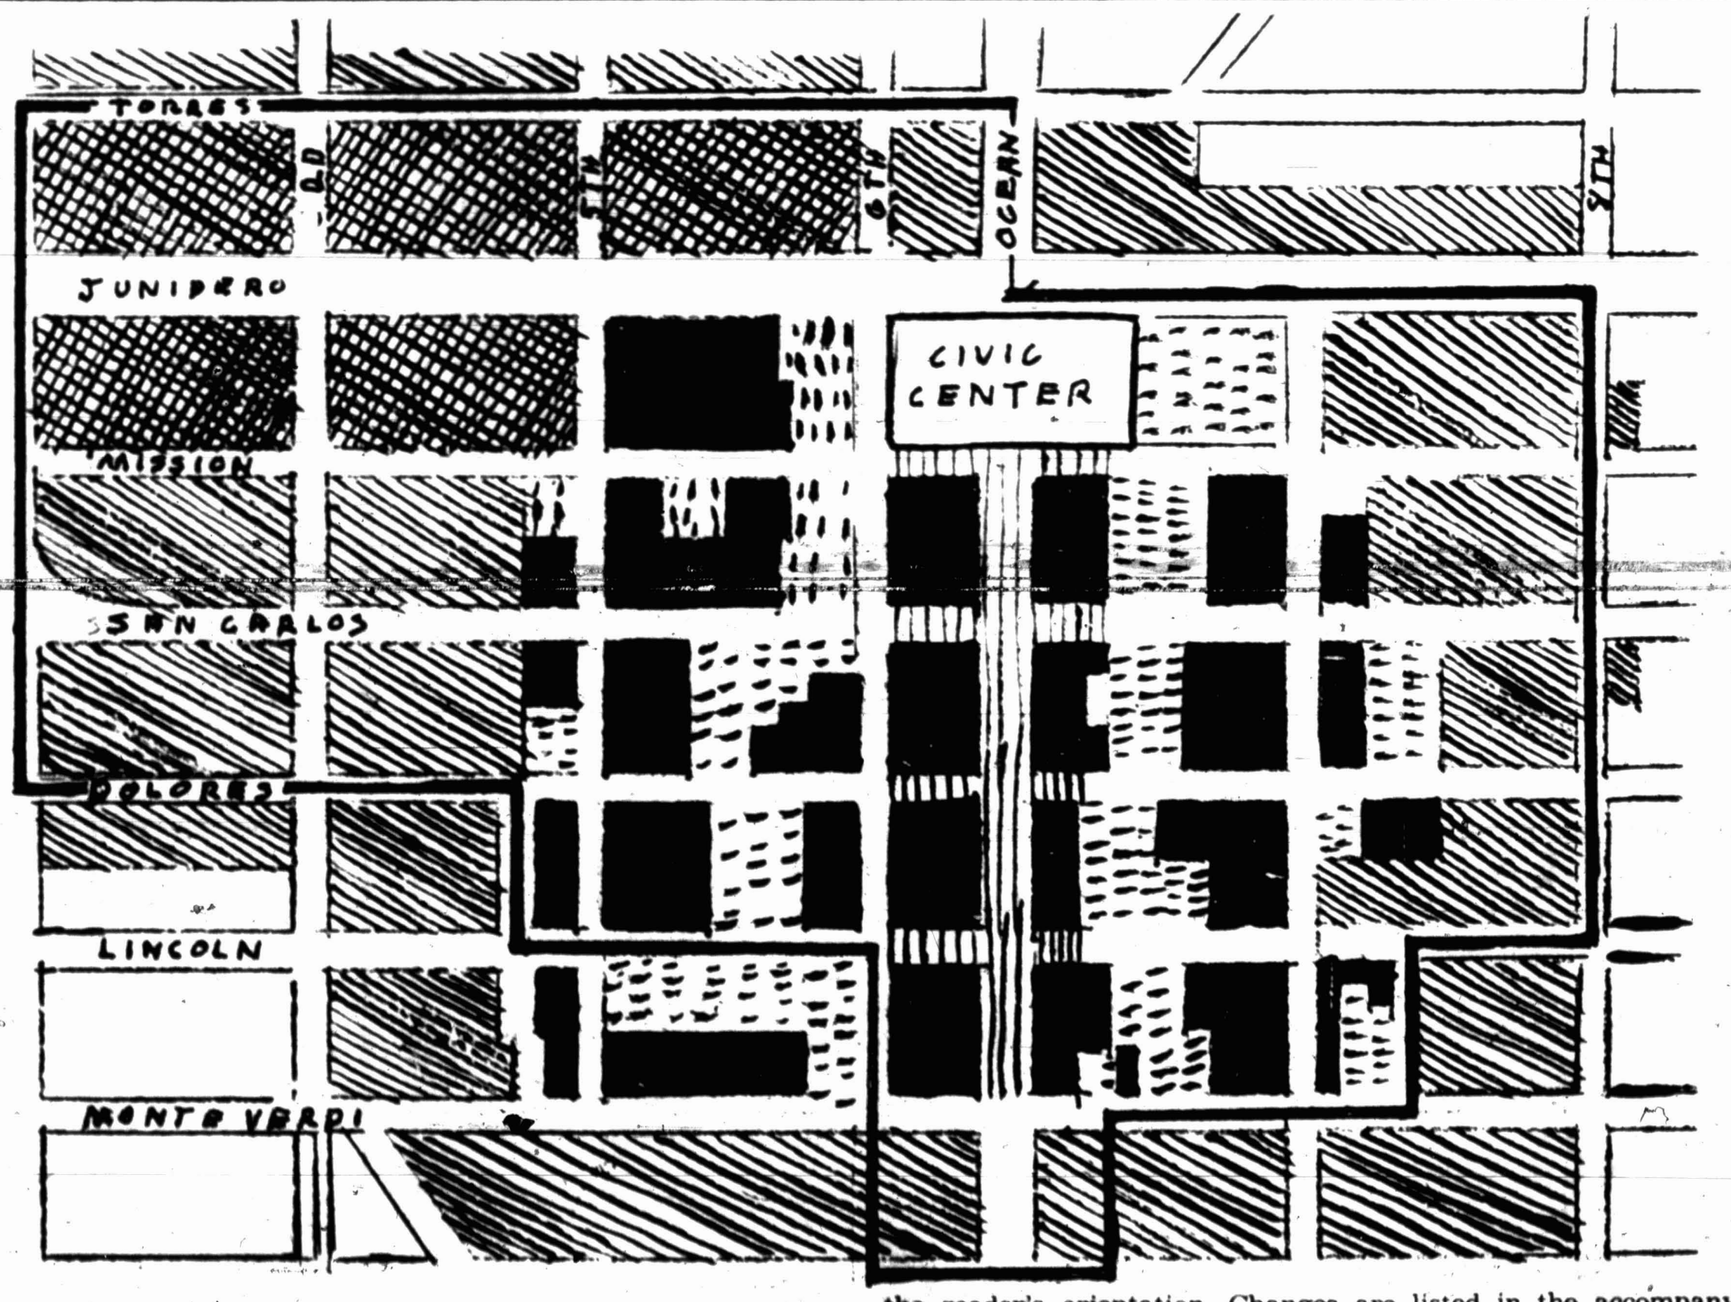
Family Service, which provides the Peninsula with trained case workers, helps secure jobs for the unemployed, counsels in marital difficulties, advises unmarried mothers and guides wayward youngsters.

A spot check shows that at least 59 percent of the residents of the peninsula from Big Sur to Marina have used one or more of the agencies supported by the community chest.

"FABULOUS AND FANTASTIC"

"Fortunately, there was enough of everything to happify us all," writes Gladys Silva on the Feature Page of this issue in her account of her adventures in Disneyland. The "enough for all" is popcorn, malted milks, and park benches to sit on, not "Adventure Land" or "The Mark Twain."

The Pine Cone has resisted for several years that typically Hollywood "production", Disneyland, but Carmelite Gladys Silva's account, so typically Carmel, has brought down the barriers.



Yesterday the Carmel Planning Commission instructed Planning Consultant Lawrence Livingston, Jr., to modify certain zoning boundaries in the proposed Master Plan for Carmel. The above chart, showing the plan before yesterday's alterations, is printed for the reader's orientation. Changes are listed in the accompanying story. Black line encloses the existing business district. Retail commercial use is black with dotted proposed parking areas. Commercial services zone is crosshatched. Multiple dwelling area is diagonally striped. Residence property is white.

CARMEL AND HOLLISTER PLAY FOR LEAGUE LEAD SATURDAY

Hollister and Carmel, the only undefeated high school teams in this area, hook up in a grid natural at Carmel High field this Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. Hollister, considered one of the strongest teams in either the A or B divisions of the Coast Counties Athletic League, is a four-touchdown favorite to whip the outweighed and outmanned Padres. However, the Carmel eleven is used to being the underdog and would like nothing better than to upset the high flying Haybalers who hold victories over Napa, San Francisco Poly, and King City. While Hollister has been clipping the big schools, Carmel has turned back Gustine, Live Oak, and Gonzales in three outings this season. Hollister has scored 51 points and has been scored on once while Carmel has tallied 70 points and has been scored on twice.

Operating out of an unbalanced T-formation, the Haybalers are famous for their superb faking which makes it practically impossible to follow the ball. In quarterback Richard Lopez, Hollister boasts an engineer who matches Gilroy's clever Ron Leonti who baffled the opposition last season. Two swift hard-running halfbacks, Ron Haro and Bob Castellano, provide the long breakaway threat any time they handle the ball. The Hollister line averages close to 190 pounds and will have a 25-pound per man advantage over the small Padres.

Operating the split-T and flanker attack for the Padres will be Don Smith and Pat Harney, ends; Paul Prince and Brian Leidig, tackles; Bob Leidig and Joe Mason, guards; Parker Pollock, center; Charley Dawson, quarterback; Jack Faia and Charley Leavitt, halfbacks; and Andy Gray, fullback. On defense, the Padres will go with Bob Durbrow and Art Wilkerson, ends; Fred Nelson and Phil Durbrow, tackles; Captain Joe Mason and Mike Meheen, guards; John Stiles and Charley Dawson, linebackers; Clyde Klaumann and Jack Faia, halfbacks; and Tim O'Shea, safety.

The winner of Saturday's crucial will take over undisputed leadership in the B division of the CCAL and will have the inside track for the 1956 championship. Carmel and Hollister are co-champions of the B-division and both schools would like to keep the winning habit.

PADRE VARSITY UPSETS GONZALES, 12 TO 0; JUNIOR VARSITY RUNS WILD

Carmel High's varsity and junior-varsity football squads refused to believe the experts who picked them to lose against Gonzales last Friday night and played a pair of solid football games to register a pair of victories over the swift Spartans. The quick-hitting Carmel limiteds struck for a 45-13 win over the little Spartans while the Red & Grey varsity ground out a 12-0 victory over the dangerous Spartan varsity.

After Gonzales had disposed of Gilroy, 13 to 6, in their first league outing, the football experts had touted the Spartans as the most likely team to give the Hollister Haybalers a run for the 1956 flag. However, Captain Clyde Klaumann and a sturdy band of hard-tackling Padres put up a rugged defense against the Spartans and successfully controlled the breakaway speed which had scuttled Gilroy. Led by linebacker Charley Dawson, who turned in a college performance, the Carmel defensive unit put steady pressure on the Spartan backs and put up a goal line stand which thwarted Gonzales when they had first and goal from the Padre two-yard line. Anchoring the Padre defensive line were Bob Durbrow, Art Wilkerson, Phil Durbrow, Fred Nelson, Joe Mason, and Mike Meheen. The forward wall was ably backed up by a secondary of John Stiles, Charley Dawson, Captain Clyde Klaumann, Jack Faia, and Andy Gray.

Carmel went right to work against the Spartans and posted six points on the board in the first quarter as Clyde Klaumann and Jack Faia blasted for 56 yards in 11 plays. With Charley Dawson at the controls, the Padres moved to the Gonzales two-yard line where Klaumann knifed through the middle for the six-pointed. Dawson's place-kick was wide of the mark and Carmel had to settle for a shaky six-point lead. The Padres capitalized on a wild center pass to notch their second touchdown. Pressured by the hard-charging Carmel line, the Spartan center snapped the ball over the punter's head and the Padres took over on the Spartan four-yard line. Jack Faia blasted over for the score as Bob Leidig and Don Smith cleared the way. Dawson again missed the conversion try and the half ended with Carmel in front, 12 to 0.

The second half was a defensive battle with Carmel having the best of the yardage but unable to muster a sustained scoring drive. Several dropped passes slowed

Eli Iversen from Norway, 17 years old, attended senior classes at Carmel High School yesterday for the first time. She arrived at San Francisco International Airport on Monday to be Carmel High School's exchange student for this year, brought to Carmel by the American Field Services with the money provided by Carmel High School students. Eli is living with Mr. and Mrs. Elwood J. Wilson who have two high school students in their family, Kay, a senior, and Edward, a freshman.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Brynjules Iversen of Oslo. Mr. Iversen is head of ESSO for Norway, a foreign branch of Standard Oil Company. She has completed 11 grades of Norwegian schooling at the Frogner Secondary School in Oslo, and speaks five languages, Norwegian, German, French, Danish and English.

"Her English is beautiful," says Miss Dorothy Wright, girls' vice-principal at the High School.

Handball is Eli's favorite sport and she is a Norwegian champion and has represented her native country in team competition.

Private Rowen W. Rapier, Jr., is shown above being congratulated by Colonel Richard J. Stillman, commanding officer, RFA Regiment, Fort Ord, on his selection as the outstanding trainee from the Regimental Guard. Rapier is taking basic training at Fort Ord and his selection was based on his outstanding soldierly qualities. He is the son of Rowen W. Rapier, Sr., of Carmel and a last year graduate of Junipero Memorial High School in Monterey.

down Carmel's touchdown drives as goalward bound receivers developed attacks of the butterfingers. Gonzales once rolled to the Carmel fifteen-yard line but the fired-up Padre defense rose to the occasion and turned back the threatening score.

Sharp running by Andy Gray and Clyde Klaumann sparked the Carmel offense which moved for over 250 yards on the ground. The two Padre fullbacks accounted for over 150 yards between them as quarterback Charley Dawson mixde up the quick-openers and fullback counter plays to keep the Spartans off balance.

The Little Padres set the stage for the varsity upset by runnning wild against the Little Spartans to rack up 7 touchdowns. The first half was a close battle as the teams traded touchdowns with reckless abandon. Coach Rainer's cohorts scored on the opening scrimmage play of the game as Bert Macahilig sneaked beyond the Spartan scondary to haul in a Fremier pass for a 65-yard scoring play. The Little Spartans came back when they got the ball and marched 75 yards in six plays to make it 6-6. With Rod Phillips and Bob Goldwater carrying the mail, the Little Padres made it 13 to 6 midway in the second period. Gonzales broke out a 65-yard pitchout play to knot the count at 13-13 with two minutes left in the half. The Little Spartans fumbled the kickoff and Carmel recovered on the 25. Three palys later, Bob Goldwater knifed through the middle for the touch down which put the Little Padres in front, 20 to 13. The second half was all Carmel as the superbly-conditioned Carmel lads powered for a pair of touchdowns in the third period and added two more in the fourth.

The hard running of Padre backs Bert Macahilig, Rod Phillips, and Bob Goldwater was augmented by fine offensive blocking on the part of Mike Raggett, Alan Eaker, Hal Gregerson, Robin Way, and Phil White. These junior-varsity players turned in performances which would do credit to varsity players on any team in the CCAL.

This Saturday afternoon, the Padres return to the league wars again as the ferocious Hollister Haybalers visit Bardarson Field for a pair of games. Both Carmel teams are on top of the league today and need wins over Hollister if they want to stay in contention for the league crown.

Editor's Column

Carmel-by-the-Sea, California
October 3, 1956

Editor of the Pine Cone:

On Sunday evening, Sept. 30, at 5:30 p.m. the Carmel Volunteer Fire Deptartment answered a call to a fire at 2nd. and Lincoln, Carmel.

Upon hearing the siren I was impelled to go to the street from my home at Sixth and Torres and witness the call. Since I live but a block and half from the Fire Department the Firehouse is plainly visible from my property line.

By the time I reached the street on Sixth the first truck was leaving the firehouse much less than one minute from when I was in my home. I proceeded down the street towards the firehouse and noted the onrush of many volunteers in their cars. Within another minute the second truck was on its way to the fire and in another minute the third truck was on its way.

In less than three minutes all trucks fully manned with the three regularly employed firemen and a host of volunteers had left the firehouse and in about four minutes the first truck had arrived at the scene of the fire, from the time the siren had first sounded.

Since there was so very great a promptness in answering the call I was impelled to not only verify the above facts but also to determine the number of volunteers who had answered the call. To my great surprise and amazement there was a total of 23 men who answered the call to that fire.

That performance was so extraordinarily unusual in my opinion that I wanted to give public expression to it. I don't believe it could be matched by any other volunteer Fire Department anywhere.

The citizens of Carmel may well be proud of their Fire Department. It bespeaks of excellent organization, alertness, and loyalty. There must be real leadership to command such a performance. Our citizens can have a feeling of real security and safety in that organization.

Cordially yours,
Harold L. Ireland.

Students Plan 17 Concessions For Their Carnival

Seventeen student concessions are being planned for the Scholarship Carnival at the High School on October 20. Aggressions may be sublimated by Carmel citizens if they so desire by throwing footballs, sponges and darts, at inanimate and animate objects, according to plans being carried out by Carmel High School boys and girls to raise money to send two seniors to college on scholarships next year.

Games of skill will present chances for the citizenry to inflate or deflate their athletic egos; their personalities can have a boost from a car freshly washed by Junior Statesmen, and for complete relaxation from anxieties there will be a variety show.

Planned by the High School PTA for family sharing are, lunch bought in the cafeteria; the opportunity to purchase new plants for the garden, Christmas presents, and homecooked food for supper Saturday night or to free mother for a restful Sunday.

Pot Luck Party For Musicians Of County Symphony

Instrumentalists in this area, interested in becoming members of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra, are invited to a potluck supper on Monday evening at 6:00 o'clock in the Carmel High School cafeteria. Players are to bring their instruments with them and join the orchestra in their weekly rehearsal at 7:30 o'clock.

The party is being planned by orchestra members so they may know one another better and add new players to the group. Families of players are also invited to the supper but may leave afterward.

"Taking the dirty dishes home with them to be washed," says Orchestra member Betty Axup.

Mrs. Marie Sale, recruitment chairman for the Orchestra, is asking all those planning to attend to telephone her at MAyfair 4-4003.

"So that there'll be plenty of food for everybody," continues Betty Axup, tending the Symphony Office in the Pine Cone Building while her six-months-old son kicks and gurgles on the office floor.

Everyone is asked to bring their own dishes and silverware to the affair.

Plaque Dedication At Soledad Mission

A state historical landmark plaque will be unveiled and dedicated at the restored chapel of Mission Nuestra Senora de la Soledad, at 1:00 o'clock on Sunday, 165th anniversary of Mission's founding.

Ceremony will be held under the sponsorship of the Mission Soledad Restoration Committee, Native Daughters of the Golden West; His Excellency, Bishop Aloysius J. Willinger of the diocese of Monterey and Fresno, and the State Park Commission. Mission Bell Parlor, NDGW, Soledad will be hostess parlor.

Honorable Joseph R. Knowland, Oakland, chairman of the State Park Commission and Monterey County and Soledad and Salinas municipal officials will participate.

Celebrant of Mass scheduled for twelve noon in the Mission chapel will be Rev. Timothy Cummins, pastor of Our Lady of Solitude church, Soledad.

It is suggested that visitors bring folding or camp chairs and picnic lunch. Nearby public recreation grounds will be available. The Mission site is three miles from the town of Soledad off Highway 101. Direction signs will be placed on the highway.

Restoration is under the supervision of Sir Harry Downie of Carmel, curator of Missions for the diocese of Monterey and Fresno. Monterey county state restoration fund committee are Mrs. Clyde Dyke, Pacific Grove; Miss Rose Rhyner, Salinas; and Lady Maria Antonia Field, Monterey. The committee plans to raise funds for further restoration on the Mission quadrangle.

CONSERVATION AND POLITICS

I have just received a circular letter from an organization known as Conservationists for Stevenson-Kefauver, asking my support in the forth-coming election. To quote from the folder: "Conservationists for Stevenson-Kefauver has been organized by independent citizens dedicated to sound policies for the conservation of America's resources. We get our support from small contributions of independents, Republicans and Democrats seriously concerned over the tragic setbacks to conservation during the last three and a half years. We solicit your help."

The Honorary Chairman is Hugh H. Bennett, retired Chief of the Soil Conservation Service of the Department of Agriculture. The chairman is Shirley W. Allen, for many years Professor of Forestry at the University of Michigan. The vice-chairman is Rachel L. Carson, author of the best-selling books, The Sea Around Us, and The Edge of the Sea. It is obvious that the head officers are not politicians but practical conservationists.

Up to the present time I have heard of no similar organization in the Republican camp. As a rule conservation organizations take no part in party politics. They are interested in promoting the wise use of our natural resources and it makes no difference to them which party is doing the work, so long as it is well done. Individual conservationists, however, must make up their minds how to vote in the forthcoming election, and if they are open-minded, they will give careful attention to appeals of this kind. Personally I would study just as carefully a letter from a comparable organization, if there were one, working for the candidates of the opposing party.

Let me quote two short paragraphs from the above-mentioned folder about the personal qualifications of the two Democratic candidates: "As Governor of Illinois, Adlai Stevenson established an outstanding conservation record when he reorganized the corruption-ridden Department of Conservation upon the advice of Dr. Ira H. Gabrielson, former Chief of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service."

"As a United States Senator, Estes Kefauver has stood solidly behind, and voted for, sound conservation legislation, and has opposed special interests seeking private rights in our lands, forests and waters".

In order to be perfectly fair I shall be glad to quote in a later column any similar statements about the Republican candidates issued by a similar organization of working conservationists. It is a well-known historical fact that the present conservation movement was initiated by two famous Republicans, Theodore Roosevelt and Gifford Pinchot. The last Congress passed a law authorizing a celebration of the 50th anniversary of the first conservation conference of governors of the various states, called by President Roosevelt in 1907 and held in 1908.

For the most part we have had in the 50 years since then a bipartisan conservation effort. The achievements have been tremendous, considering the chaotic state of the administration of our public lands before that time. Let us hope that when the voters have finally given their decision next month, we can proceed once more with bipartisan cooperation in the management and protection of our national parks, wildlife refuges, national forests and soil conservation districts.

LUNCHEON FOR SENATOR

Senator Albert Gore of Tennessee will visit Monterey County tomorrow sponsored by the United Democratic Campaign and the local Stevenson-Kefauver Committee headed by State Senator Fred Farr.

He arrives at the Salinas Airport at 11:15 o'clock and will immediately proceed to a luncheon at the Hotel Cominos in Salinas to which all those interested are invited to attend. Transportation for Peninsula residents desiring to attend the luncheon honoring Senator Gore can be arranged by telephoning Mrs. Arthur Stuart, MA 4-2607.

The Tennessee senator played an important role at the recent Democratic Convention in throwing his votes for the Vice-Presidential nomination to his fellow Senator from Tennessee, Estes Kefauver.

The Time Has Come .

By Kippy Stuart

This is an S.O.S! to find a missing person. Many weeks ago, I returned home to find inside my living room door a sack filled with neatly, graded, whittled sticks. Some are redwood, some are hard wood and they are beautiful to look upon. I have canvassed my neighborhood and my list of garden friends. No one knows anything about these neatly stacked sticks. That they are intended for some gardening purpose I have no doubt, yet no one I have consulted can fathom their use or purpose. Will the kindly person please come forward with instructions, so that I may offer my thanks?

Hydrangeas are beginning to look ragged and they are asking for the pruning shears. No later than November, hydrangeas should be pruned almost to the ground. It hurts like the mischief to cut back so drastically, yet plants that are left half-pruned, only half-bloom the next season. In cutting back hydrangeas do not make a clean sweep to the ground. Cut alternate canes a few inches higher than their neighbors. Shape the bush as you prune and as you wish that bush to develop. Any good acid fertilizer is called for in the fall and if you are smart, you will save the blooms of hydrangea for livingroom arangements. Some varieties will even dry and remain with you through the winter; some varieties wilt over night. I don't know why, but this is a fact.

The old fuchsia argument is beginning to show its ugly head. When to prune . . . when not to prune. An old and tried method is to let the plants tell you themselves. There are over four thousand varieties of fuchsia and each is a law unto itself. As long as the plants look healthy and are blooming, let them alone; when they begin to yellow and look scraggly, get the pruning shears. The best method in pruning fuchsia is to cut all lateral branches right down to the standard canes and leave them looking like a skinned cat. This, again, will hurt your feelings, yet it is the proper way to make a sure-fire blooming plant next Spring. My fuchsia variety Schiller, I prune in November, others, such as Treasure, Gypsy Queen, etc., I leave alone, as long as they are sending forth healthy green foliage and flowers. This refers to the standing variety of fuchsia. The basket ones are treated differently. Cut all branches that are hanging down to about seven or eight inches from hip of container; cut them zig-zag, to pattern their form for the next season. Give them any good fertilizer in about January, for they are asleep now and don't want to be disturbed with too-soon growing pains.

When the wash is out on the line, do you feel like a washout yourself? Who wouldn't, with all that lugging, stooping and pinning. Then, when the clothes finally dry, there's the same routine in reverse. Wouldn't you rather toss the wash into an automatic dryer? At the twist of a dial, the dryer gets them fluffy and sweet . . . or ready for ironing. With P. G. and E.'s low rates, you can run a dryer for pennies a week. CHURCHES

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The vital importance of applying the rules of living taught and practiced by Christ Jesus will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Doctrine of Atonement."

Selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include the following (37:22-25): "It is possible,—yea, it is the duty and privilege of every child, man, and woman,—to follow in some degree the example of the Master by the demonstration of Truth and Life, of health and holiness."

The Golden Text is from II Corinthians (5:18): "All things are of God, who hath reconciled us to himself by Jesus Christ, and hath given us the ministry of reconciliation."

Cast Announced For "Time Out," Next At Golden Bough

The Golden Bough Circle Theatre is presenting Time Out for Ginger as their next production, opening on October 19 and will be presented week-ends for six weeks. This is the comedy by Ronald Alexander which ran for 44 weeks when it was first presented in New York and was toured with great success to nearly every large city in North America, with Melvyn Douglas in the leading role of a harassed father of three teenage daughters who are pretty, spirited and charmingly feminine, although the youngest insists on going out for her high-school's football team.

When Time Out for Ginger is given here, Allen Foulkes will be seen in this same role of the fond parent who encourages his offspring to the fullest of self-expression, even if it means his youngest decides that self-fulfillment for her is to be a half-back on the varsity. Peg Miner will act the part of the tolerant, affectionate wife; Ciji Ware, the athletically-inclined daughter Ginger, and Judy Paplow and Nancy Lofton will be seen as the other two daughters.

Kit Jones and Pete Lonero are the two contrasting beauxs of the daughters in this family, Neil Norum the indignant high school principal, Clifford Anderson the worried head of the father's business, and Gertrude Chappell as the family's loyal servant. The play which was called "Fresh, warmhearted, funny and irresistible" by the New York Times when it was first shown on Broadway is being directed by Charles Thomas.

CHARLOTTE IS PRESIDENT

Charlotte Boyd, daughter of Hal and Ruth Boyd, has been chosen president of her residence hall at Antioch College in Ohio, making her a member of the Community Government Policy Committee.

At Antioch community government is responsible for the operation of all non-academic campus living. The committee on which Charlotte will serve has members from the faculty and administration staff as well as from the student body. She will also work with a sub-group planning for transition to a new college calendar to go into effect in 1957.

This is Charlotte's second year at Antioch, where she is majoring in education and biology.

Arlene Turi To Bring Concert Series To Carmel

Carlos Montoya, world famous Spanish guitarist, who often played Peninsula engagements as guest soloist with Carmen Amaya, La Argentinita, Yma Sumac and other noted artists, will appear in person in a popular concert of flamenco music at Sunset Auditorium, Carmel, Saturday night, October 27, under the local management of Arlene Turi. He will feature selections from his record albums, which top all others in the gypsy field.

Other attractions on the 1956-57 Arlene Turi Concert Series at Sunset Auditorium will be Devi Dja, in a new program of Indonesian dances and rituals, Celso Hurtado, Guatemalan marimba virtuoso, and Chabela and Antonio, famous folk dancers from the Teatro Bellas Artes, Mexico City.

Now on a coast-to-coast tour, Montoya comes directly from his annual summer engagements at fiestas and bullrings in Spain, and recent triumphs at Town Hall, New York. Prior to Carmel he performs at Marines Memorial Theatre, San Francisco, and at the Montgomery Theatre, San Jose.

Fabulous and Fantastic

By Gladys Silva

When the Abbott Silvas — two of us — recently substituted a Carmel week for one in the Los Angeles area we found that a day had been set aside by our son Bill for the three of us to visit the latest wonder of the world, Fabulous and Fantastic Disneyland. At least that was his terminology which we accepted temporarily with reservations.

Bill had already spent a day with the children, so from this vantage point of experience he elected himself as guide to show "the folks" what he thought would be of the greatest interest, thus short-cutting an otherwise exhaustive adventure.

Plans never fell apart more completely than they did that Saturday. The time of year, the time of week, and time of day were against us. It was summer school vacation. It was the week-end holiday rush, and it was midday when we reached the park.

We parked in an acreage so extensive that motor pickups cruise around to gather up the farthest away parkers and carry them to the entrance where they pay their admission fee and are turn-stiled in. Through a bit of know-how Bill parked us near the entrance.

Under a very, very warm June sun and a clear blue sky we began our peregrinations. With one exception we "made" Disneyland by pedal safari. The guide book credits the park with two million feet of paving. I would never argue their accuracy.

The first wave of Disneyland atmosphere is called "Main Street, U.S.A." where "the nostalgic charm of 1890 comes to life—" says the g.b. Well, it's plain that Mr. Disney is "buttering up" the oldsters. I can't say about 1890, but I was close enough to vouch for Mr. Disney's henchmen's precision in assembling a main street of around that time.

Of course memory would replace the wide cement walks with wide oak boards — (I'm not sure about that oak) — with cracks warped enough to swallow up pennies dropped unheeded from pinafore pockets. The roads in my childhood town were not pavements for perfectly groomed horses to clatter over with Concord stages. They were either clouds of dust, blobs of mud, or ruts of ice, always a challenge to the animals hitched to the local "hack."

In spite of our facetious remarks about Main Street of 1890 which left us neither nostalgic nor charmed, we had a lot of laughs, as Bill said, at long forgotten sights and sounds, and assured the generation walking beside us that it really wasn't bad — at all.

The "Heart of Disneyland" is the Plaza from which emanate avenues to four fantastic — see what I mean? — displays of human ingenuity. Bill could hardly wait to steer us to the first, Adventureland.

"You've got to see this if you don't see anything else, he said. "It's fabulous."

Besides the Tahitian Village and the Bazaar of South Sea products, to mention only two, the adventurous visitor, according to the g.b. takes "an explorer's boat (The Congo Queen) on a journey through tropical rivers where life-like animals add thrills and excitement to your trip to the far ends of the world."

We had to take their word for it because we didn't get any nearer than a look at the muddy, brown water, and elusive jungle sounds,. Hundreds and hundreds — maybe thousands — of young with their families and all their friends were lined up for at least two city blocks waiting their turn to buy tickets. There simply was no chance for us for hours. So we mentally threw overboard our trip to the far ends of the world. Bill's disappointment was the hardest to bear.

We turned toward the avenue which led to Frontierland. From the massive stockade gate our roving eye took in the colorful ensemble of "yesterday" where one could ride a Conestoga wagon or join a mule pack train to the Painted Desert. We were offered these "lifts" too soon. Our feet were still young. We could see that Frontierland was meat for the Davey Crocketts.

At this point Bill's eyes beamed again and he led the way to the "Mark Twain" just unloading at the dock. It is a 105 foot paddle wheel boat, a three decker. Looked mighty inviting. But a weird thing happened. No sooner had the crowds of young and old disembarked than it was obviously repacked simultaneously. And once again we found blocks of families milling around until they could buy tickets. No use waiting here, either. Poor Bill!

"This certainly was not the right day to come here," he brooded.

We tried to comfort him with memories of river boats on the Mississippi. Why cry over this little ol' Mark Twain? Huh?

The third avenue took us to Fantasyland where Snow White and the Wicked Witch have been hiding out. Here one can ride with the Seven Dwarfs through their diamond mine, or visit Sleeping Beauty in her multi towered castle, and where a legion of other storybook characters surprise and enchant. The colors were lovely. All was imagination de luxe. This was the mecca for distaffers of all ages. This came the nearest to being MY nostalgic charm.

It came the nearest, too, to my being disclaimed by my family. The mammoth head of a beast protruded from the water, its dripping tongue lolling all over its cavernous mouth. It fascinated me.

"Oh, look at the alligator", I screamed.

From one side came, "For heaven's sake, Glad, don't—" From the other side, "MOM, that's a WHALE." So you see—

The fourth avenue brought us to Tomorrowland. By this time we had counted off a lot of that two million footage. We craved popcorn, malted milks, and an empty park bench, and we were lucky to settle for all three despite the mobs who had the same idea. Fortunately there was enough of everything to happify us all. On a seat near by a grandmother — how we can spot us — was fanning a sleeping baby. We smiled and she smiled.

We sat opposite the most gorgeous, the most musical the most patronized carousel I have even seen, or dreamed of. It bears the significant name of The King Arthur Carousel, and it has four rows of horses, handsome beasts with handsome trappings. I decided really to go nostalgic over it. I always was a come-on for a merry-go-round anyway. I suppose I could have ridden on it. But I was still subdued after the whale business.

Tomorrowland offered us the future. We turned down the ride on the rocket to the moon, and shied away from the space ship at the Space Fort. But we toured quite intimately the two huge exhibit buildings to observe how we would be living in the not too distant future. Because my men laughed I did not go into the "bathroom of the future." That might have been something I could understand and I shall always regret my failure to take my stand.

Now was the time, if ever, to find something to ride on before we left the park for good. And Bill came into his own. He knew where to go.

There was a scramble but we made it. We found seats in the scaled down train which puffs and whistles around the perimeter of what Disneyland now comprises. Big doings are going on around the present park and another year will see more strange and exciting forms of entertainment, we are told. Walt Disney is a fabulous prestidigitator.

Funning, we thanked Bill for his service as guide.

"Oh, the pleasure was all mine," he tossed off. Then he added, shall we say unnecessarily, "But it certainly is fantastic, isn't it?"

RETURN

At daybreak from the apple tree
Where last he whistled his adieu
The wistful nomad of the north
Renews his autumn rendezvous.

Three plaintive notes in minor key,
Clear as October air, descend
In liquid song to offer me
The wistful welcome of a friend.

Deep in Alaskan solitude
He sang his lonely summer through,
Sharing his gift of melody
With timber wolf and caribou.

Southward he winged as autumn breathed
A whisper from a frozen sea,
And once again my troubadour
Salutes me from the apple tree.

Small friend, I, too, am going home
From days beneath a summer sun.
Sweet songster, tell me how to greet
The summer's end as you have done.

—Arthur Wild.

OH YOUTH!

Children of the rainbow,
Walking underneath a purple tree,
Breathless, beautiful as summer
Speak, oh speak to me!

Tell me simply, tell me sweetly
Underneath the stars of joy,
Tell me simply, tell me sweetly
As a little girl or boy;

Let me see your redder checks
Bluer eyes and sparkling feet,
Like flowers white and gold and russet
Walking down youth's rainbow street—

No great opinions having yet
No mind made up to truth and love,
But free as robins without houses
Longing to fly, to run, to rove.

Children of the rainbow,
Walking underneath a purple tree,
Breathless, beautiful as summer—
Speak, oh speak to me!

—Marion Schoeberlein.

PAINTING OF PIPPA, A KITTEN

An artist's brush
Clothes nine or ten strokes
With the enchantment
That's a kitten:
Arched on petal paws,
Tiger in small,
She pounces upon leaf-prey
Hiding in the lily bed jungle.

—Vera T. Marshall.

Pierrot without his Pierrette . . .
Is a sorry minstrel with a heart to-let.
His lute is mute, his song is stilled . . .
His joy in living is all but killed.

In the old French and Italian pantomimes Harlequin became a sorry jester when he was bereft of the lady of his foolish heart. He needed his public: a listener for his song; an audience to laugh at his frivolities.

Carmel's business men follow more serious pursuits, of course. They expend considerable effort, their time and financial resources to bring to residents of their home community the best the world's markets have to offer. They, too, need their public . . . their audience . . . the support of those who live here, work here, and who enjoy the advantages of this unique community.

The dollars you spend here remain here. They are put to work to make Carmel a more secure, prosperous and beautiful place to live.

Dyer At Verde Valley

Dyer Drake, son of Mrs. Chase Drake, reports that he has enjoyed his first month at Verde Valley School near Sedona, Arizona. He has been on an expedition to nearby logging country and learned to "skin" trees and is eager for next week to arrive when he goes with other students to spend a week on the Navajo Reservation living with the Indians and learning their way of life. Dyer is also enthusiastic about his studies. He reports that "old grad" Garth Winslow has paid a visit to the school since his arrival. Both Dyer and Garth went to Bay School together several years ago. Garth graduated from high school at Verde Valley in June, and Dyer finished his elementary school studies here at Serra School the same month.

Judy Arnott Surprised

"Happy Birthday," was the greeting Judy Arnott received when she arrived at the Gordon Campbell house on Thursday night expecting to be the one guest for dinner. Instead she found eleven of her friends gathered to give her a party on her thirteenth birthday. Organized by Julie Campbell, her cousin, Sally Campbell, and Ann McWhorter, the party was the combined effort of the other girls, Penny Nielsen, Janice Way, Joy Fehring, Mardi Lloyd, Pam Petersen, Vilma Bellido, Diane Shields and Kathy Henderson, who all had kept the affair a complete secret from Judy.

Detroits' Golden Trailer

Adele and Lance Detroit are the owners of the golden trailer which has been parked halfway up Ocean Avenue since Sunday afternoon.

"It's the first gold-colored trailer on the road," they proudly told friends who greeted them on their arrival in town from Los Angeles where they took delivery of their new "house on wheels".

"The color caused Ramona and Lloyd Weer to spot us on the road up from Santa Barbara and turn around to see the trailer before continuing their trip to Arizona," the Detroits also reported.

This weekend, the Detroits, all packed and ready for a year's journeying about the United States, will hitch the wonderfully equipped trailer to their car again and start travelling, with Seattle the first stop.

Encounter In Scotland

A card from Mary Lindasy-Oliver, Pine Cone music critic, from Edinburgh reports: "This is Auld Reekie, where I have just come through ten days of Festival, mostly in heavy rain, but which was needed after a long drought. Ran into the Kusters at a Curzon recital and had dinner with them a few days later. I had been told by a mutual friend they had gone to the continent, so it was a delightful surprise.

"I go to Helensburgh tomorrow, on the Gairloch and later to Hawick again in the Borders and to Coventry and London. Went to Findhaven and Glamis castles on the Lindsay Clan gathering where I was placed with Lady Lindsay at the speakers' table and introduced to the 200 present. More later on. All good wishes."

Westons Back From Abroad

Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Weston flew the transpolar route to Europe, visited ten countries and returned by way of the Azores and Bermuda. Two highlights of their trip were the music festival in Lucerne and seeing the residence of the De Grasse family in Paris. Mrs. Weston is a descendant of the family and was delighted when the tour guide unexpectedly pointed out the family's ancestral home.

Dr. Weston observed that dogs are well cared for in Europe and stray dogs non-existent.

"A definite safety measure, considering the traffic," he reports.

Both the Westons were impressed with the friendlines of the people in the Azores and the beautiful sewing and embroidery done by the women.

The Westons found Paris, Venice, Majorca and Bermuda the most beautiful places in their travels.

Fashion Show At Open House For New Gladys McCloud's

Nine years ago, when a young Navy wife was unable to find appropriate clothes for her two school-age daughters, she opened a shop of her own—small premises with a neat 12 foot frontage on Dolores Street, south of Ocean Avenue. Her stocks comprised two sizes only—"Girls" and "teens"—the latter a range for age groups, 11 to 14 years.

Next Friday formal Open House will be held at Gladys McCloud's handsome new shop in the former Pilot Market premises on Ocean Avenue near San Carlos. Remodeled by Comstock Associates, with a decor strongly influenced by the owner, the new Gladys McCloud shop on Ocean Avenue is decorated in soft pastels: pale pink, blue and silver-grey. Display equipment is the most advanced with the shop divided into three units: one for girls, 7 to 12; a second for sub-teens, 11 to 14 years old, and a third, adjoining the Ocean Avenue entrance, for "Juniors", that all-inclusive age group which takes in petite and youthful, well-proportioned women of any age. Each section assembles coats, dresses, lingerie, sports apparel, robes, accessories and jewelry for the group served there. Unusual gifts and gadgets also are stocked.

Commander and Mrs. Walter McCloud make their home in Carmel. Commander McCloud, who was the first line officer to report to Pre-Flight School when the Navy took over Hotel Del Monte, now is in the Active Reserve. He also serves in the guiding and counseling department of San Francisco City College. Susan, their elder daughter, is a graduate student at the University of Geneva; her sister, Sarah, is a sophomore at Stanford.

Next Friday's afternoon and evening Open House will feature prizes, refreshments, and a fashion show, with local Juniors, Subteens and girls modeling the new shop's autumn apparel. The decorative wrought iron staircase descending from the Sixth Avenue entrance of the shop will be used as runway by the young models. The Columbus Day Open House also will provide interested local residents with an opportunity to inspect the new Gladys McCloud premises, believed to be unique on the Monterey Peninsula.

The Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society will present Dr. Ernest P. Edwards and his Land of the Scarlet Macaw as the first offering of the season this evening at 8:00 o'clock in Sunset Auditorium.

Dr. Edwards received his biological training at the University of Virginia and his master's degree in ornithology at Cornell. After duty in the Army, he resumed studies in biological science receiving his doctorate in ornithology in 1949.

His book, Finding Birds in Mexico, shows the trend of his previous studies and his colored film, Land of the Scarlet Macaw, is the result of these studies. Dr. Edwards shows birds in their interrelation to other forms of wildlife and the plant world.

Dr. Edwards travelled off the beaten tourist path in Mexico and his film shows seldom seen magnificent scenery, low and high country, natives making sugar by primitive methods, all this with many birds presented in a film not easily forgotten.

A dinner in honor of the speaker will be held at Holiday Inn at 6:00 o'clock immediately preceding the Screen Tour.

Church Women Ask Clothing Donations For Asia Refugees

Women's organizations of the Protestant church of the peninsula are collecting clothing and blankets for people in refugee camps in the Orient, the Middle East and Europe. Especially wanted this year is clothing for boys of age sixteen and up, and for men, but garments for any person are acceptable. In addition, yardage of denim and sheeting as well as blankets are desired.

Contributions may be left at the church activity rooms and labeled United Church Women, during the last four days of October. Committees of women will pack them to take to the World Community Day meeting on Friday, November 2, at the First Baptist Church in Pacific Grove. Bundles will be shipped to the Church World Service warehouse in Modesto, from which the collections from all over northern California will be shipped overseas for distribution by C.W.S. wherever the need is greatest.

Stamp Club To Have "Scramble"

Following a spirited auction at the last meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Stamp Club, held in Carmel High School, Colonel John R. Wright, president, awarded door prizes to Miss A. E. Peiman a charter member from Atherton and to Terry Dun.

Colonel L. H. Caruthers, program chairman, is leaving with Mrs. Caruthers on a motor trip to Maryland to welcome a new grandchild.

Ten dollars worth of mixed stamps have been purchased by the club for the "Stamp Scramble." These stamps will be dumped on a large table and scrambled. Members and guests will be invited to help themselves at the bargain table. In previous scrambles, there has been much excitement as collectors discovered "sleepers" and valuable stamps for their collections and for trading. This will be a chance to fill the blank spaces in your album with real bargains. These stamps are not the usual picked over kilos but carefully selected mixtures.

All stamp collectors on the Monterey Peninsula are cordially invited to come and bring their friends to enjoy the "Scramble."

The date is Monday, October 15 at 8:00 o'clock in the evening, in the Carmel High School.

VOTE NO PROPOSITION 12 NOV. 6

Proposition 12 would let state officials put bond issues —of any size—on the ballot WITHOUT giving notice through the public press.

It says that it's ENOUGH to let you know about multi-million dollar bond issues which YOU will have to pay by listing them in the ballot pamphlet you receive a few days before the election.

WHY HIDE the facts by avoiding publication of them—IF the proposition is sound? The American Legion says "only UNSOUND and UNWISE legislation needs to hide - - - - - ".

St. Teresa Mass To Be Sung Oct. 15 For Noel Sullivan

CARMEL MONASTERY
P. O. Box 17
Carmel-by-the-Sea
California
October 8, 1956

To: The Carmel Pine Cone

On October 15th at 9:30 a.m., a High Mass will be sung at the Carmelite Monastery, Carmel, for the peace and refreshment of the soul of Noel Sullivan, who so joyously departed this life on September 15th. The Rev.. Father Ignatius Loughran, pastor of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church in Carmel Valley, will officiate. The choir will be made up of old and dear friends of Mr. Sullivan, men and women who sang with him often in the past, and who now pay loving tribute to his memory. They are Mrs. Jeanine Johnston, Mrs. Betty Lamb, Mrs. Ruth Cooke, James Schwabacher and Winther Anderson, with Mrs. Donald Whitmer at the organ. Mrs. Earl Oren, 'cellist, will also accompany some of the soloists.

It is customary for a Mass to be celebrated for the departed one month after the death. October 15 is the feast of the St. Teresa of Avila, Foundress and Mother of the Discalced Carmelites, to whose Order Mr. Sullivan has been a friend and benefactor. A Requiem Mass cannot be celebrated on that day in a Carmelite Monastery, for mourning cannot co-exist with the joy of such a feast. It was Father Loughran's thought that Noel Sullivan would be delighted to have the Mass of St. Teresa offered for his soul.

The Carmelites want all of Noel Sullivan's friends and acquaintances to know that they are welcome, regardless of any distinction of race or creed. Please come and unite with us in offering this loving tribute to a dear friend who is still ours in God.

Carmel Planners Alter Boundaries Of Orange Zone In Master Plan

Market is already in the C-2 zone. Half blocks fronting on Junipero from Third to Sixth Avenues are all in C-2.

Returned to commercial use from proposed multiple dwelling zoning is property fronting on Dolores Street from Eighth to Seventh Avenues, extending halfway through the block and including the property fronting on Seventh and San Carlos now occupied by a gas station. All other property in the block from Eighth to Seventh, bounded by Dolores and San Carlos, will be multiple dwelling.

Returned to residence use from general plan multiple dwelling designation are two and a half blocks starting at Mission Street between Third and Fourth Avenues and extending down to the middle of the block fronting on Dolores Street between Third and Fourth Avenues. The east side of Torres Street facing the C-2 zone, remains as zoned in the Master Plan, from residential to multiple dwelling use.

The block on Monte Verde Street starting at Sixth marked for multiple dwelling has been returned to residence use except for a narrow strip fronting on Monte Verde opposite the Christian Science Church. This narrow strip is already occupied by multiple dwelling.

The property fronting on each side of Ocean Avenue west of Monte Verde will be removed from commercial use to multiple dwelling as proposed in the general plan. A strip a half block deep fronting on Monte Verde to Seventh the now outside the business district will remain as changed from residence to multiple dwelling. South half of the property on the East side of Monte Verde fronting on Seventh to Lincoln Street, now commercial, will be changed to residence, and the rest of the piece to be multiple dwelling.

The East side of Junipero from Ocean to Eighth Street will be as in the Master Plan, multiple dwelling, and the North end of the block occupied by a church will also be multiple dwelling as in the Master Plan. The Torres to Junipero block between Ocean and Sixth will remain changed from business to multiple dwelling.

Livingston took the map with him when he returned to San Francisco after the meeting. He will return an easily reproducible copy of the zoning map for the Planning Commission to present to the City Council when the new zoning ordinance is ready to be considered by the Council.

Also to be considered at this time is the second zoning map of the entire city presented to the Planning Commission yesterday afternoon by Livingston. It embodies the new central district plan, and the residence district and parks and beaches. Only public lands now owned by the state or city are marked on this map. "Any others," remarked Livingston, "must be acquired by paying the going market value of property at the time of acquisition."

"Property should not be condemned for this purpose," he added.

In study session with Livingston preceding the presentation of the two maps the Planning Commission decided that in the new ordinance sign regulation in the commercial district will be the responsibility of a design committee. There will be no stipulated size or required material for signs but each application is to be judged by the committee in relation to the building on which it will be placed.

"What happened to the duplex district," Livingston queried the Commission when they became involved in deciding how much open space and parking area to be required for multiple dwellings on small sites such as a single lot. After much discussion the Commission decided that thirty percent of the required open space (provided by a front setback of 15 required feet, back setback of 20 feet and ten percent side setbacks) could be covered with a single garage ten feet high and four feet from the back line of the property.

In the commercial zone off-street parking will not have to be provided by businesses with a minimum 40 feet frontage. Required parking for hotels stymied the Commission and they are still thinking about this problem with their decision to be transmitted to Livingston later for incorporation in the new zoning ordinance.

"There should be no appeal from decisions of the building inspector and the city clerk, except through the courts or the city attorney," was the advice Livingston gave to the Commission. The Commission had previously planned to have an appeal committee.

Filing fees will be higher in the new ordinance to cover the cost of processing applications. Proposed are $50 for a change of zoning application; $25 for change of use permit; and $10 for a variance. Added to these fees will be processing expenses in excess of those stipulated, if incurred.

The Planning Commission rescinded the decision they had made previously concerning paying guests in the residence zone. None they had decided before, yesterday they allowed two to a dwelling. Commissioner Florence Josselyn opposed the change.

Commissioner Herbert Blanks asked for a reading of the clause in Livingston's contract concerning the preparation of the proposed zoning ordinance and the zoning maps. Under his contract Livingston must present one copy of the zoning ordinance and one zoning map to the Commission to present to the Council.

"Will these be applicable today or to the future?" asked Blanks.

"They apply to today and are roughly, for use for the next five to ten years," replied Livingston.

"They will be no good 20 to 25 years from now."

At the opening of the meeting, City Clerk Larry Rose transmitted a verbal protest received by telephone from Mrs. Clifford Cook, protesting the Commission's procedure in devising a zoning ordinance to implement the plan before they had discussed or evaluated the citizens' protests expressed at the public hearings.

What makes a glass of beer so right?
